

Investment objective

To seek a combination of long-term capital appreciation and income, but with a focus on growth, with a medium risk investment profile.

Benchmark

The Fund is benchmarked against the MSCI PIMFA Growth Index (Total Return) and will take active positions relative to this index on both asset allocation and stock selection. The Fund's broad asset allocation (split by equities, fixed income and alternatives) will typically be restricted to a range, relative to the benchmark, set by the CSI Investment Committee.

On 1 March 2017 the WMA (now PIMFA) range of Private Investor comparators replaced FTSE International with indices provided by MSCI and IHS Markit.

Investment policy

In order to achieve its objective, the Fund will invest principally in a diversified portfolio of different asset classes such as equities, equity linked securities (including warrants and convertible securities), fixed and floating rate debt securities, index linked bonds, cash and cash equivalents. Equities will be the dominant asset class.

The equity part of the Fund's portfolio will contain primarily securities from the leading UK companies (FTSE 350) or their equivalents from overseas markets. The equity part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, the securities of smaller companies. The bond part of the Fund's portfolio will contain mainly bonds such as sovereign debt or securities guaranteed by governments and corporate debt with the focus being on medium to high credit quality. The bond part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, lower quality bonds.

Fund manager commentary

During the second quarter, the Fund returned -10.1% against the PIMFA Growth Index that returned -6.8%. Relative underperformance was driven by stock selection within International equities.

The first half of 2022 offered very few hiding places for investors. Deutsche Bank reported positive returns in only four of the 38 asset classes under its coverage – even lower than the seven that managed a positive return in the midst of the financial crisis. In America the S&P 500 suffered its worst first half since 1970, whilst the more growth orientated Nasdaq index recorded its worst first half performance ever. Not to be outdone, the FTSE 100 rounded off the period with its biggest monthly drop since March 2020 when Covid-19 first hit. At the same time, cash held on deposit saw its value viciously eroded by inflation that reached its highest level in 40 years on both sides of the pond.

Concern and uncertainty amongst both consumers and investors has been caused by the combination of the ongoing conflict in Ukraine, stubbornly high inflation and increasing interest rates.

As is often the case during times of stress, investors' time frames have shortened meaningfully and focus has shifted to businesses who are expected to justify the majority of their value in the near future; tobacco, energy and commodity companies are good examples. And it is through understanding this that one can understand the disappointing year to date performance of the Coleman Street Funds which hold a preference for businesses with high barriers to entry, enduring and attractive financial characteristics and the ability to grow over long periods of time.

It remains our belief that superior financial performance will be driven by businesses in structural growth markets, with loyal customers and attractive economics. And that, when bought at a reasonable price, superior financial performance will drive superior share price performance. As a result, we have continued to allocate capital to a number of high quality assets but have retained exposure to both defensive and cyclical end markets in doing so.

It is a challenging time for investors at present and we think it is a useful time to remind ourselves of a recent observation by the renowned investor, Howard Marks that, 'in the real world things fluctuate between pretty good and not so hot, and in the market, things fluctuate between flawless to hopeless'. It is these mood swings of the market that offer opportunities to the long-term, rational investor.
