

Investment objective

To seek a combination of long-term capital appreciation and income, but with a focus on growth, with a medium risk investment profile.

Benchmark

The Fund is benchmarked against the MSCI PIMFA Growth Index (Total Return) and will take active positions relative to this index on both asset allocation and stock selection. The Fund's broad asset allocation (split by equities, fixed income and alternatives) will typically be restricted to a range, relative to the benchmark, set by the CSI Investment Committee.

On 1 March 2017 the WMA (now PIMFA) range of Private Investor comparators replaced FTSE International with indices provided by MSCI and IHS Markit.

Investment policy

In order to achieve its objective, the Fund will invest principally in a diversified portfolio of different asset classes such as equities, equity linked securities (including warrants and convertible securities), fixed and floating rate debt securities, index linked bonds, cash and cash equivalents. Equities will be the dominant asset class.

The equity part of the Fund's portfolio will contain primarily securities from the leading UK companies (FTSE 350) or their equivalents from overseas markets. The equity part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, the securities of smaller companies. The bond part of the Fund's portfolio will contain mainly bonds such as sovereign debt or securities guaranteed by governments and corporate debt with the focus being on medium to high credit quality. The bond part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, lower quality bonds.

Fund manager commentary

During the quarter, the Fund returned +2.4%, against the PIMFA Growth Index that returned +1.3%. Relative outperformance was driven by stock selection within international equities and alternatives.

As the third quarter of 2021 drew to a close all eyes were on Government bond yields, which had shifted sharply in response to commentary from central bankers that hinted interest rate rises might be more likely and sooner than currently expected.

The victims of these rate rises have been some of the finest businesses and the market's most prized assets who are richly valued. These moves highlight the continued importance of valuation even in a strategy that focusses on high quality businesses. Put simply, it has been a reminder to us all that great businesses are not always great investments.

To illustrate this point, consider Cisco Systems, a business that is not held in the Coleman Street funds but is one of the global leaders in technology and cyber-security. Over the last twenty-one years, Cisco has been able to grow sales at a compounded annual growth rate of nearly 5% and profits at nearly 7%. They have been able to hold gross margins flat at around 60% throughout that time and have consistently achieved operating profit margins north of 20%. They have generated buckets of cash, which they have reinvested at a very high return on capital, and they have always held a net cash position on the balance sheet.

Over the same twenty-one years, the compounded annual return to shareholders has been just 0.02% versus the S&P at 5.4% and significantly less than inflation. By almost anyone's definition, Cisco has been a great business but a disappointing investment.

Valuation remains an important part of our investment philosophy in the Coleman Street funds. We will only seek to invest in what we deem to be great businesses but we will not pay more than what we deem to be a fair price - usually based on the cash that we think that business can produce over its useful life.

As a couple of examples, we have continued to add to our positions in Next and Hargreaves Lansdown in the UK, Kering and Nordnet in Europe and Berkshire Hathaway and Etsy in the US.
